Justify 'The fate of the government/ country depends not just on what the rulers do but mainly on what we as citizens do'. In my opinion, it is true that the fate of a country depends not just on what the rulers do but mainly on what we, as citizens do. It is the people only, who choose the ruler. If the people are educated then they will choose a government that is beneficial to them. But if the people are illiterate, then they would be a government that will lead the country to 'shackles of poverty'. Democracy is a word which is not an actual rule of citizens but a system to select a ruler. In India, we have a system of participation of public. According to some famous the new law is not better for them. So they are actively fighting for their rights. India has got a good media and social media where people can criticize the government or their

...of China, where we will observe that there is no freedom of expression. No one can criticize the government. All social media sites are banned and a single party system exists. There is no one to keep a check on the government. If we look at our part then we will observe that after people have chosen, the country has progressed. For example, the French revolution, the independence of America from Britain etc. In India, also we see examples like - The Revolt of 1857, Non-cooperation movement, Gandhi's freedom, Salt Satyagraha etc. In all these cases, we see that when people were educated then only they thought of a government that suits their country. This was the only time when people wanted to overthrow the rule of monarch or colonialism. That is why it is true that the fate of a country depends not just on what its rulers do but mainly on what we as citizens do.

Summer Capsule Programme - Students played musical instruments and guided to make models from waste material at home

Mother's Day

Students recorded videos, showing their love for their Mom.

“At the end of the day all we need is hope and strength. Hope that it will eventually get better and strength to hold on till it does”. And while we are waiting; whatever hardship, challenges, indecisions and fears that we are facing, we just remember that these too shall pass and by the grace of God we will overcome.”
